EDUCATION IN 1920 AND NOW

One of the first things the Pilgrims did when they settled in New England was to establish free public schools for their children. In the 200 years since they came to these shores the country has grown amazingly, has become a great democracy, proud of its progressive ideals and achievements. Owen R. Lovejoy, of the National Child Labor Committee points out how the nation has failed in the matter of education. In his annual report of the committee's work he says:

"There are at least 5,500,000 illiterates in the United States. Nearly one-fifth of all American children between 10 and 15 are out of school earning their own money."

Such progress as has been made in industry and transportation in the maintaining of high standards of living, etc., is hampered by the neglect of the nation's young citizens. The Pilgrims were right in the emphasis they placed upon education for children. Their descendants are wrong when they permit so many to go, uneducated, into jobs which develop little skill or initiative and offer little opportunity for advancement.

CARDINAL GIBBONS RESTING QUIETLY

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 27.—Cardinal Gibbons was said to be resting quietly yesterday morning, after having spent a restless night. He is apparently not sleeping well, as the report of his restlessness has been made several times.

Owing to his condition no Christmas celebration was held for him at the Shriver residence in Carroll county, where every care is being given him by his devoted friends in his illness.

He spent all of his Christmas Day in bed, and no visitors were admitted to see him save his closest friends. A mass was said for him Christmas Eve at midnight by his secretary, Father Smith.
